

The Movement of Memory, Solo Art Show
New York City, Oct 2024

“Emily Yuan begins her path as a Creative Technologist following a decade of working in AI and Photography.

In "The Movement of Memory", Emily invites you to explore fragments of her past, translating the brain's process of memory recall into physical art. These prints, created from her own photo works and enhanced with AI technique called Frame Interpolation, offer a glimpse into the interplay between technology and the human experience.”
